The CE (Conformité Européenne) marking is a European Union certification that verifies a product's compliance with core health, safety and environmental protection standards required for sale in the European Economic Area. As a mandatory certification for product categories including electronics, machinery and medical devices entering EU markets, this designation confirms legal market access across 31 European countries. It remains critical for importers fulfilling EU regulatory obligations. Suppliers holding this certification demonstrate commitment to product quality and responsible manufacturing practices aligning with European sustainability objectives.
